Citizen of Japan Here.

"T. W. Yonebayashi, Japan." was inscribed on the register at Murphy's Hotel yesterday. The bearer of the name is a native of the Oriental isles whose people are making such a brilliant showing in the war with Russia. He had retired last night when a reporter called, but it was learned that his mission here has to do with the leaf tobacco business, and not with the war. The Japanese visitor, like all his countrymen who come to this country, is a very intelligent man.

the monster had been sent to chastise the people for their wickedness.

"For nearly three hours the object was in full view of the entire populace. At the end of that time it disappeared in the sky.

"I am of the opinion that the monster hight be one of those things which on the earth are known as birds. Of course, we have no birds on this planet; and I would not want my name used as saying it was a bird."
